

The Bedroom Experiment

A bedroom checklist for clearing what's in the way of rest — starting at your bed and working outward. Nothing to buy, nothing to sign up for. Change one thing, then notice.

You just took the Sleep Quiz — that's your starting line. Here's what to actually do with it.

Most bedrooms hold a surprising number of things nobody chose for sleep — a charger, a standby light, a power strip under the bed. Everything here addresses quantity: what's plugged in, switched on, lit up, or on the bed within a few feet of where you sleep. Work in order: tonight is free, this week takes minutes, and the rest is just paying attention.

01 Tonight — free

Nothing to buy. Start at the bed and work outward.

- ☐ Look at both sides of your bed. Anything plugged in or switched on within arm's reach is a candidate to move.
- ☐ Phone on airplane mode or off, and across the room.
- ☐ TV off at the wall, or out of the bedroom for the week.
- ☐ Unplug any Wi-Fi or smart speaker, or move it out.
- ☐ Do your last scroll somewhere other than bed.

02 This week

Small changes, a few minutes each.

- ☐ Pull extension cords and multi-outlet strips out from under the bed.
- ☐ Bedside-lamp bulbs: try amber incandescent. No electronics inside, very little blue light. Can't find one? Choose the warmest amber bulb you can.
- ☐ Cool the room: about 60–68°F is the usual expert range, but your own comfort is the test.
- ☐ Keep the light out: blackout shades or a curtain liner; cover standby LEDs.

03 Worth a look

Your room's company and layout, not just what's plugged in.

- ☐ Pets: in the room, or on the bed? In one Mayo Clinic study, a dog in the room didn't disrupt owners' sleep much; a dog on the bed did. Try a week on a bed of their own.
- ☐ What's on the other side of the wall behind your headboard — a panel, meter, router, wiring? Just find out.
- ☐ Sleep one night in another room and notice how you wake.

04 Track it

You don't need to believe anything about energy to run this.

- ☐ Each morning, rate how rested you feel, 1 to 5:

MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT	SUN

- ☐ Change one thing at a time. Give each change a few nights.
- ☐ After a week, retake the Sleep Quiz — bobby-ifjfdgxc.scoreapp.com — and see what moved.

Not “what’s wrong with me?” — but “what’s in the way?”

This isn't a diagnosis. It's a starting point.

This list handles quantity — the half you can see and change yourself, for free. There's a second half, quality, that doesn't show up on any checklist. It's something the body already knows, and it's the part I do this work to address.

Run it for a week, retake the quiz, and tell me how your nights went — even a couple of lines in reply. I read every one.
